WAR

Is Being Waged in Earnest

And the Test

Of Dr. Doty is Watched With Interest.

If Successful, Lima Oil Will Have a Double Value.

The Standard Donated a Car of the Fluid Which is Being Used to Exterminate the Pesky Jersey Mosquito.

A few days ago the Times-Democrat contained a telegram from New York which stated that Dr. Doty had been experimenting with the Jersey mosquito and was prepared to announce that while the insect and its larva seemed to thrive on bichloride of mercury and carbolic acid, Lima oil was death to them. Since then he has been waging war on the pests, which have practically taken possession of Staten Island, and the method adopted is thus interestingly told by the Toledo Times:

Staten Islanders are watching with keen interest the mosquito exterminating operations of Dr. Alvin H. Doty, health officer of the port of New York, on the ponds and old cisterns in the former town of Concord. Dr. Doty says he chose that locality for his experiments because of the large number of shallow ponds, the prevalence of malarial disorders and the general unsanitary conditions due to old cesspools and cisterns, and the raising of pigs and poultry by many of the residents.

Dr. Doty frankly admits that the best way to get rid of the pests he is fighting is to fill up the ponds and ponds, empty the rainwater barrels and stagnant cisterns and provide proper drainage for the houses, but in the absence of an appropriation large enough for these improvements he is endeavoring to find local and temporary relief by treating the infected places with crude petroleum. In experimenting with the larva of the mosquito, better known as the "wiggle-tail" of the rainwater barrel, Dr. Doty discovered that bichloride of mercury, one of the most powerful disinfectants and germicides known, was very slow in killing them. Carbolic acid, also, was not so deadly in the case of baby mosquitoes as in that of bacilli. The larvae lived in weak solutions of these chemicals twenty-four hours. He then placed a few drops of petroleum in a vessel containing several larvae in an ounce of water, and was surprised to see the creatures die quickly. He continued his experiments until he proved that the oil was also sterilized by the oil, and that the fully developed mosquito did not like to stay in his usual haunts after oil had been sprinkled on the grass. This was enough to encourage him, and he called into consultation Edwin M. Skinner, the chief engineer of the state board of health, to devise a means of applying the oil so thoroughly and effectively that the matured insects would be driven away, their larvae destroyed and their unhatched ova sterilized by a single application. Sprinkling was not efficacious, as previous experiments had demonstrated. The female mosquito deposits her eggs on the surface of the water; they remain several days and as they quicken sink to a depth of from four to six inches. The larvae makes frequent excursions to the surface to breathe through a little tube near the tail, then returns to their lower positions and rest on submerged grass a moment or two, when the proceeding is repeated. To reach them effectively, Dr. Doty deemed it necessary to force the oil to the bottom of the pond and mingle it with the grass, roots and mud, as well as with the water. Enough oil to prevent the larvae breathing would rise to the surface, he reasoned, in any event.

Mr. Skinner devised a raft with a framework of light tubing beneath perforated, so that a jet of oil, under pressure, could be forced downward about two feet at every six inches. This raft he connected with a hose attached to an ordinary wagon oil tank. The first effort to use the machine convinced Mr. Skinner that more pressure than gravity afforded was required to force the oil jets to the bottom of an ordinary pond, and he arranged to connect with the oil tank a compressed air reservoir containing air at a pressure of about 2,000 pounds to the square inch. By discharging a small quantity of air into the oil reservoir at intervals, sufficient force was secured.

The raft is dragged to and fro across the pond by ropes to the hands of laborers, sending its jets of oil to the bottom in its passage. The weeds and grass on the banks are sprayed with ordinary sprinklers to insure sterilization in case of a rise of the water, and also to drive away the mosquitoes which take refuge from the hot sunshine in such places.

Dr. Doty has received aid from the Standard Oil company which has contributed a carload of oil, and from the Compressed Air company, which charges his air cylinders without cost. The health department of New York city has provided two policemen of the sanitary squad to prevent interference with the work by property owners and to keep the curious out of the way of the workmen. All the expenses of the experiment, beyond those mentioned, are borne by Dr. Doty in person.

PROFITS

Are Assured to All of the Stockholders.

By the Okeniva Oil Co. Which Offers a Safe and Paying Investment on a New Plan.

In June of the present year there was quietly organized in Lima an oil company upon a plan which places the oil business upon a basis as devoid of speculation as is the business of the merchant or farmer.

This company eliminates the feature of wild catting upon which so many oil ventures fail. The Okeniva deals exclusively in defined territory; in oil lands that the drilling of others has shown to be producing property. By the by-laws of this company no wild catting is permitted and so the business of producing oil is put on the basis of the ordinary business venture. The first purchase of the company was in the rich pool near the Shappell and Infirmary farms and east of the city and with oil producing farms all about it shows the wisdom of the choice.

It is the purpose of the management of the company to make a safe and secure place for investments which will pay at least ten per cent per annum and which will have its stocks always at par or better. No watered stock is allowed and each dollar of stock issued is supported by a dollar's worth of property. The company began its business June 25, 1901, and on August 1st, it was enabled to pay a dividend of one per cent for the 36 days and leave a handsome surplus over cost of operations.

That the company will be most successful is shown by the character of the men in charge, J. B. Kerr being its president, E. M. Cobb secretary and general manager and S. W. Van-Cleve, treasurer. The stockholders embrace the best business men of Lima and adjoining cities, amongst whom are F. W. Holmes, C. H. Cory, J. J. Ewing, W. L. Mackenzie, G. S. Vinary, F. D. Closser, W. G. Smith, J. W. Griffin, John Finley, Morris Bros., Alex. Castle, I. R. Longworth, Theodore Handle, W. C. Hillman, L. O. Sands, Shaw, Kendall & Co., C. H. Hough, H. L. Leilich, L. C. Justus and many others.

The company is receiving stock subscriptions at the office of I. R. Longworth in the Methuen block. The stock is fully paid and non-assessable and is put at $50.00 per share so that the investor however small may be accommodated. This company gives a place for the person who desires a sure dividend of at least 10 per cent to invest his money with absolute confidence and safety.

LI IN A TIGHT PLACE.

Native Press Denounces Him as Having Surrendered to Foreigners.

HAS RETIRED TO THE BACKGROUND.

Officials Urge the Emperor to Punish Him for Betraying His Country. Delay of Chinese Peace Commissioners Causing Anxiety.

Peking, Aug. 24.—The delay of the Chinese plenipotentiaries in signing the protocol is causing some uneasiness in the foreign community here, although the ministers of the powers do not think that the Chinese intend to defy the powers by ultimately refusing to sign. Indeed, they believe China is anxious to wind up the negotiations speedily.

Decrees reciting the punishments and suspending the examinations will be issued before the Chinese signatures are affixed.

Prince Ching, at the request of the emperor, telegraphed to her verbatim the restrictions as to the importation of arms.

Li Hung Chang, having conducted all the active negotiations, has retired into the background, leaving to Prince Ching the responsibility of consummating the work. Earl Li finds himself in the same precarious position that he occupied at the close of the negotiations following the war with Japan. The native press is unanimous in violently denouncing him for what is called his surrender to the foreigners, and a number of officials have petitioned the emperor to punish him for betraying his country.

New Electric Traction System. New York, Aug. 24.—The first test of a new system of electric traction is reported as having surpassed the expectations of the installing engineers.

A correspondent in Italy, where the installation has just been completed, says a speed of 45 miles an hour was secured without any serious jarring and that trains of cars were easily transported at this speed even on decided grades. The dynamo worked perfectly at 21,000 volts on a line 67 miles in length. This new method of electric traction is what is known as the high tension polyphase system, and the results of these tests have been awaited with much interest by electric railway interests.

Prisoner Found.

Pittsfield, Mass., Aug. 24.—Daniel Leary, alias Michael Webb of West Philadelphia, a prisoner at the Berkshire county jail, under indictment for killing Warden Fuller of the house of correction with a maul, made a vicious assault upon Officers Carley and Smith with an iron window pane. The prisoner was overpowered. He received five scalp wounds from the clubs of the officers. Leary is to have a hearing Sept. 3 for the murder of the warden, and will be kept in close confinement until that time.

Mines Working Again.

Matewan, W. Va., Aug. 24.—The Logan and Red Jacket mines started work Friday with a full force of non-union men. All of the mines in this section which were compelled to quit work more than two months ago by a strike of all union labor are now in operation. Almost half of the strikers have left the fields, but the most intense excitement reigns among the others over the importation of more than 100 men from Virginia to take their places.

Jenkins Met His Match.

Worcester, Mass., Aug. 24.—Tom Jenkins of Cleveland, champion catch-as-catch-can wrestler of the world, failed to throw Hjalmar Lundin of Hartford, Conn. twice in an hour's wrestling at the coliseum. The first bout, catch-as-catch-can, was won by Jenkins in 11 minutes 24 seconds. The remaining 48 minutes 57 seconds were spent by the champion vainly trying to best Lundin Greco-Roman style.

Bryan Will Stay at Lincoln.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 24.—The rumor that W. J. Bryan will soon move to Chicago to make it his home is without foundation. Mr. Bryan is out of the city, but his brother, Charles W. Bryan, said the report was news to him, and he was sure there was no truth in it. He said Mr. Bryan would continue to live in Lincoln and publish his paper here.

To Protect State Property.

Jefferson City, Mo., Aug. 24.—Governor Dockery ordered Adjutant General Damotin and Brigadier General Clark to repair to Pierce City at once to protect property of the state there against the mob. There is talk of disbanding the militia company at Pierce City owing to the company's rifles being used by the mob that lynched three negroes.

Tortured and Robbed.

Findlay, O., Aug. 24.—Five masked men entered the home of Philip Stiles near Deshler, and after torturing and threatening the entire family of six persons for four hours departed with $50 in cash. Bloodhounds were put on the trail of the robbers.

Officer Shot by a Negro.

Indianapolis, Aug. 24.—Deputy Constable John F. Henninger of Justice of the Peace Stout's court was perhaps fatally shot by William Wakefield, colored, while trying to serve a writ of replevin.

Fought to a Draw.

Louisville, Aug. 24.—Steve Crosby of Louisville and Joe Gans of Baltimore fought 20 rounds to a draw at Music Hall for the colored lightweight championship.

A YOUNG LADY'S LIFE SAVED.

At Panama, Columbia, by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Dr. Chas. H. Utter, a prominent physician, of Panama, Columbia, in a recent letter states: "Last March I had as a patient a young lady sixteen years of age, who had a very bad attack of dyspepsia. Everything I prescribed for her proved ineffectual and she was growing worse every hour. Her parents were sure she would die. She had become so weak that she could not turn over in bed. What to do at this critical moment was a study for me, but I thought of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and as a last resort prescribed it. The most wonderful result was effected. Within eight hours she was feeling much better; inside of three days she was upon her feet and at the end of one week was entirely well." For sale by Wm. M. Melville, old post office corner.

CUBAN BANDIT KILLED.

End of the Notorious Career of a Daring and Desperate Outlaw.

STANDING REWARD FOR HIS HEAD.

Lima Lima Hunted Down and Four of His Followers Captured—He Was Willing to Surrender and Leave Cuba For the Reward.

Havana, Aug. 24.—Lima Lima, the notorious bandit, for whose capture, dead or alive, the military government offered a reward of $1,000, has been killed at Macurries (Corral Pales), in the province of Matanzas. The police assisted the rural guard and four other bandits were captured at the same time. The body of Lima will be photographed for the purpose of identification.

Lima's operations in the provinces of Matanzas and Havana had greatly exasperated the military authorities. For several months there was a standing reward of $500 for his head. During the latter part of July he sent word to the authorities that he would surrender for $500 provided he were allowed to leave the island. Upon receipt of this the reward was doubled, and urgent instructions were sent to General Rodriguez of the rural guard to capture Lima.

Finally the bandit's mother asked Acting Governor General Scott to promise to pardon him if he surrendered. The reply was that if he gave himself up he would be tried as a bandit, and if he remained at large he would be hunted down and killed if necessary.

Marital Misfortune.

Palmyra, Wis., Aug. 24.—Mort Cartwright, 18, who a few weeks ago married Ella Strike, 15, attempted to kill his wife and himself at the residence of Alfred Watson here. Cartwright is at a sanitarium with two bullets through his body near the heart, and his wife is at the home of her grandparents with a bullet in her back. Cartwright was fatally wounded, but his wife is expected to recover. Her corset steels turned the course of the bullet. The attempt at murder and suicide followed a quarrel and separation which took place shortly after the marriage. Mrs. Cartwright returned to Palmyra, stopping at the Watson residence, where she was to meet her husband. The tragedy occurred shortly after the arrival of Cartwright. There were no witnesses.

Cuba's Cigar Outlook.

Havana, Aug. 24.—Gustav Beck, in the course of a report to the cigar manufacturers' union regarding the outlook of the cigar and tobacco industry, expressed the opinion that there is no danger to be apprehended from American competition so far as Cuban cigars are concerned. He takes the ground that even if Cuba sent all her cigars to the United States—and she produced 200,000,000 last year—this could not seriously affect the American producers and manufacturers, who last year sold 300,000,000 cigars in the United States. Even if Cuba were to more than double her present output and to send all to the United States, this would not change the situation.

Poolrooms Raided.

Cincinnati, Aug. 24.—The troubles of the poolrooms across the river were renewed Friday when Sheriff Miller of Campbell county raided and arrested the proprietors of the room which was opened Wednesday at Huber's Garden, just outside of the corporate line of Newport, Ky. The rooms closed out in Covington Tuesday owing to the opposition of the local courts and it was expected that they could operate in their new location unmolested. Affidavits were made charging the proprietors and attaches with keeping a disorderly house. They were bound over to the grand jury and released on $500 bail.

Coler Proposed For Mayor.

New York, Aug. 24.—John C. Sheehan of the Greater New York Democracy said the name of City Comptroller Bord S. Coler will be presented to the anti-Tammany conference Sept. 9 as a candidate for mayor. At this conference will be representatives of the Republican county convention, the independent Democratic organizations, the Citizens' union and the German-American union. Mr. Coler was elected comptroller on the Tammany ticket at the last city election.

President's Message to Negroes.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—At the closing session of the National Negro Business league a telegram from President McKinley, received by Booker T. Washington, expressing the president's interest in the organization, was read aloud and received with cheers. Booker T. Washington of Tuskegee, Ala., was elected president. E. E. Cooper of Washington, D. C., was elected recording secretary, Emmet J. Scott of Tuskegee, Ala., was elected corresponding secretary.

Fatal Family Quarrel.

Butte, Mont., Aug. 24.—As a result of a family quarrel John C. Kimball is dead, his wife Gussie is in the hospital with a bullet wound in her chest, and Frank Yechot, the father of the woman, is in jail charged with doing part of the shooting. Kimball drew a revolver and began shooting at the woman. Yechot then shot Kimball. The Kimballs have not been living happily together, it is said.

Postmaster Arrested.

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 24.—Henry Harris, postmaster at Durand, Ill., has been arrested, charged with a shortage of $1,900.

LOST ART REDISCOVERED.

Valuable Material For House Construction Invented.

A St. Louis man is said to have discovered one of the lost arts. Following the idea of Edison's concrete "poured houses," Professor Brown has invented a combination of sand, cement and sulphur which he claims possesses qualities far superior to Edison's concrete and which can be produced at less cost than that material, says the New York World.

Professor Brown claims for his new discovery that it is acid proof, a non-conductor of electricity, waterproof, a non-conductor of heat and cold and that it is indestructible, being impervious to all attacks of fire, temperature, climate variations, time and decay.

The compound can be mixed and molded upon the spot where it is to be used, and when dried it becomes as hard as granite and will take a high polish.

The inventor spent 15 years in perfecting the process by which the new compound is made, receiving his first idea while experimenting with a material for campaign medallions in 1884. It was only last spring that he brought his invention to the desired degree of perfection and took out his patents on the substance and the process.

Besides being valuable for house construction, the new material is available for use in the construction of sewer pipes, electric wire conduits and water mains. In art and decorative work it is also expected to be of use.

Scientific men who have examined the new material say that it resembles that discovered in some of the ancient ruins in the old world that are more than 1,000 years old.

In these ruins have been found large ornamental blocks that could only have been molded on the place where the building was reared, some of them being so large that they could not have been admitted through the entrance.

Professor Brown owns a piece of material which he says is known to have been taken out of a building erected 1,500 years ago, and he declares it to be the same as this new compound.

THE PRESIDENT'S FARM.

McKinley Spends a Day on It Inspecting the Property.

President McKinley recently spent a day at his farm near Minerva, about 20 miles southeast of here, inspecting the property and taking a substantial country dinner with Farmer Jack Adams, his tenant, says a Canton dispatch to the New York Sun. It was the first time he has visited the farm since he became president and the first meal he has eaten there in seven years.

A drive was taken around the fields, the crops discussed, the barn and sheep stable visited and the live stock paraded through the barnyard for review. Three of the president's horses are there and apparently improving under Adams' care. He is to be allowed to keep one until next spring in the hopes of developing him into a good roaster.

The McKinley farm is one of the best in an especially fine farming country. Adams has managed it for nearly 20 years. Its products are varied, and Adams boasts of a greater quantity for the acre and better quality than any other farm produces in the county.

Special attention is devoted to sheep and horses, and more ground is put to potatoes than to wheat. Last year's potato crop of over 1,000 bushels brought fancy prices. One Maryland commission merchant secured the whole crop at 5 cents a bushel above the highest market price. The potatoes were sold for seed "from the president's farm" and the commission man made a good stake.

TO MAKE MICROBES WORK.

Illinois Town Will Dispose of Its Sewage Scientifically.

Lagrange is to have the most up to date plant for the disposal of its sewage that science has devised, says a Chicago dispatch to the New York World. Work on it will be begun within two weeks, and it will be finished before the end of the year.

In this plant microbes will be made to do the work. Cultures of the organisms will be kept in huge antiseptic tanks. Through these tanks the sewage will pass, and when it comes out it will be as pure as fresh water, the microbes having absorbed all the impurities.

"This method is the only practical one for small towns," said T. L. Allison, a member of the village board. "It is already in successful operation in Quincy, Ill., and Madison, Wis., but our plant will be an improvement on both of these."

Petroleum to Lay Duet.

Walter L. Suydam, a contractor of Sayville, L. I., is testing petroleum as a sprinkler for laying dust on several roads in that neighborhood, says the New York Sun. He says that with one sprinkling of petroleum a road will be in good condition for several months, while water must be applied several times a day. The road in front of St. Ann's church in that village was thoroughly sprinkled with petroleum under the direction of Mr. Suydam. If the experiment proves successful, Mr. Suydam will advocate the use of petroleum for roads in that section of Long Island.

Exterminating Rats.

Japan has gone to work with much determination to check the bubonic plague by killing the rats which spread it. A recent number of The Japan Times says that the rats, dead and living, that were bought by the authorities in Tokyo on one day numbered 126,632. It would be a good plan in all countries which are subject to the plague to put a liberal standing bounty on rats and exterminate them as far as possible. The need is fully as great in such places as it is used to be in America for a bounty on wolf scalps.

"Played Out"

Is one of the curious expressions used for worked out. Many a woman drops into a chair, in utter weariness "all played out," and wonders why she feels so weak. She has not yet realized that the general health is so intimately related to the local health of the womanly organism, that weakness must follow womanly diseases.

Restoration of the general health invariably follows the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It regulates the periods, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It tranquilizes the nerves, encourages the appetite and induces refreshing sleep.

There is no substitute for "Favorite Prescription," for there is nothing "just as good" for womanly ills.

I wish to advise the suffering women of this great land, of the good I have received from Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and "Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mrs. Mary Shippell, of Columbus, Ohio. "I have been suffering for years with a variety of female troubles, and at times was unable to do even the house work for three or four days. I had such pains that I suffered almost death doses of times, but after taking five bottles of your medicines I can truly say that my health and my nerves are improved. I have a good appetite and am gaining in flesh right along. This spring is the first time in five years that I have done my house cleaning all by myself and without the least fatigue whatever. I hope all suffering women may find relief as I have done. I had such pains that my weight has been just ten pounds, and I am still gaining."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1000 large pages, paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing, or for cloth-bound book, send 51 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

MOSQUITOES OUT AT SEA.

The Paste Officially Reported Remote From Any Land.

A score of mosquitoes on shipboard remote from any land is the story brought into port by two vessels that recently arrived at southern quarantine stations, says a Washington dispatch to the New York Sun. The matter has been officially reported to the marine hospital service by the surgeons at the south Atlantic quarantine station and the Gulf quarantine station, the report being made in accordance with the recent theory that mosquitoes sometimes spread infectious and contagious diseases. One of the vessels whose passengers were attacked by swarms of mosquitoes was the ship America. The ship was about ten miles from Chandelier island in the Gulf of Mexico when the insects appeared.

The other case was considered more remarkable. It was that of the Spanish bark Maria Blonquez. This vessel was 22 days out from Rio de Janeiro, several hundred miles from any known land, when great swarms of mosquitoes seemed to rise up out of the sea, so sudden was their appearance. Life on the ship was made miserable. Some of the apartments were fumigated to kill the mosquitoes and then the pests were gathered up by shovelfuls and thrown overboard.

SVEN HEDIN IN ASIA.

Researches of the Famous Explorer in Tibet.

VALUABLE RELICS OBTAINED.

Numerous and Important Discoveries Made by Dr. Hedin. Who Claims to Have Solved the Problem of Loh Nor Lake—Many Hardships Endured by the Expedition.

The following interesting account of Dr. Sven Hedin's second expedition in central Asia appears in the London Times:

Writing from Thunee (Temurlik) at the end of last October Dr. Hedin announced his intention of making two more journeys before he set out on his long march home, one among the mountains to the west of Temurlik, the other to the ancient lake bed he had discovered and the Kara-Koshun lake, which he identified with Prjevalsky's Loh Nor. It is with these two expeditions that his latest letters deal.

Starting on the first journey, to the great or westerly Kun-Kul, early in November, Dr. Sven Hedin crossed and measured these mountains on three lines. He passed through absolutely unknown country, but the excursion was a comparatively short one, lasting only a month, and by Dec. 12 he was ready for the more important march.

On this he had with him nine men, with 11 camels and 10 horses. Khan-ambal was the first point for which he made, and this he reached by a rather difficult mountain road lying to the south of Little Lake's road, which was struck at Khan-ambal. After making a circular march to Siring, round the insignificant Anamur-tin, and back to Khan-ambal, Dr. Sven Hedin proceeded across the desert straight to the north and passed through the mountainous region which constitutes the western continuation of the Kurruk Tagh.

During the latter part of the march the little company of travelers had a very trying experience. For 12 long and arduous days, during which they pushed forward as rapidly as possible and covered, in spite of the slow rate of traveling necessitated by the careful observations which Dr. Sven Hedin was continually making, about 20 miles a day, not a drop of water was found. Fortunately on the third day the travelers came across some snow, and this just enabled the camels to last out until water was reached. Otherwise they must inevitably have succumbed. After this Dr. Hedin, with the aid of the map he had compiled in March, 1900, when he made his great discovery in connection with the Loh Nor problem, was able to find Ali-mishuk quite easily and from there to proceed with all his caravan to the ruins on the northern shore of the ancient lake bed. The camels were heavily laden with ice, and after they had been sent back to the bulak Dr. Hedin was able to stay among the ruins for a week. During this time he was busily engaged compiling maps and plans, taking photographs, gathering together collections of various kinds and making excavations among the ruins. The discoveries he made were both numerous and important, but he thinks that perhaps his most curious "find" was some 12 complete letters written on paper in Chinese. They were in a marvelous state of preservation, every sign being perfectly distinct and legible. Among other curiosities that Dr. Sven Hedin will bring home are 30 little pieces of wood, which, so far as he can judge at present, must have been used as some kind of ticket. Each one has inscribed on it the name of some emperor, the year of his reign, the month and even the very day. A "saint" who has read some of them tells Dr. Hedin that they are 800 years old; but the latter feels that he cannot form a definite opinion until he has had them translated on his return.

Among the ruins Dr. Hedin found a beautiful Buddhist temple, in which he saw some of the most artistic wood carving. One of the representations was a large fish, and in this connection he mentions that one house contained a number of fish bones which were evidently the remains of fish exactly similar to those found today in the Kara-Koshun lake to the south. These facts, Dr. Sven Hedin considers important as strengthening his claim to have found a lake bed which was actually filled, not so many years ago and which is the true site of the Loh Nor of the ancients. In the temple Dr. Hedin further found a Buddha carved in wood, and he also mentions as one of his "finds" a piece of wood, which he describes as being about half the size of the sheet of note paper he was writing on, on which there was writing in Tibetan characters. In one of the Chinese letters to which reference has already been made the place was called Loh-an, and there is also mention of the great road which it will be remembered Dr. Sven Hedin found running along the northern shore of the lake bed, which is said to join Loh-an to Sa-dosheo. Dr. Hedin brought away with him specimens of the various kinds of wood carving, and specimens in Europe will eagerly await the sight of these as well as of the photographs of the ruins, which Dr. Hedin had developed just before writing and of which he speaks in the most enthusiastic terms.

Of the full importance of his discoveries among the ruins it is, he says, impossible to give at present any adequate idea. But he states that he has gathered together materials for a bulky volume on the Loh Nor problem alone.

An Old Pastor.

Rev. James P. Dextester, Columbus, O.

No man in the capital city of the State of Ohio is better known than the Rev. James P. Dextester. For many years he has been the successful pastor of the Second Baptist Church of that city. Every day his venerable figure and kindly face may be seen on the streets of the city where he has labored for so many years. What a history of benevolence and self-sacrifice might be written simply giving the details of the day-day life of this faithful pastor and great preacher.

His old age comes to the best of men. His rheumatism peculiar to advanced age has already begun its insidious ravages when it became necessary to find a doctor, if possible, that his days of usefulness might not be shortened.

An efficient nerve tonic that would regulate the circulation, improve the action, and increase the tone and power of his whole system, was needed. Only remedy capable of meeting all the indications was found to be Paine's. In a recent letter to Dr. Hartman, he writes:

"My attention was called some time ago to your medicine for rheumatism by Mr. Cook, an old reliable friend of this city, and take pleasure in saying that I have tried them and find them good. It is my opinion that Paine's is justly entitled to fame because it has throughout the world."

Wabash Line

Causes Consternation Among the Roads

That Have Been Keeping Up the Agreed Rates to the Pan-American.

The Grand Trunk Falls in Line and Makes the Same Rate as the Wabash and the Passenger Association is at Sea.

The determination of the Wabash railroad to sell tickets to Buffalo based upon the G. A. R. rates to Cleveland brought consternation to some of the Central Passenger Association lines yesterday, and left them wondering what course to pursue, says the Cleveland Leader. All are determined to meet the competition, seeing that there is no possibility of wiping it out, but the manner in which this is to be done immediately becomes the question at issue. Some hastily advised that the Western lines be allowed to sell tickets to Cleveland and base their Pan-American fares on the Cleveland rate, while others advised that the road directly affected by the Wabash action should make a certain Chicago rate to Buffalo and allow the western lines to use that as a basis rate. There is some uncertainty about the outcome, since it is not known to what extent the Wabash is going, other than its flat declaration that the cheaper rate would be good west of Toledo and Adrian. It may be that the status of the reduction is such as to permit the roads affected to meet the rate only at competitive points, leaving the other territory undisturbed. In this manner a general demoralization would be prevented, as lines would not be drawn into the controversy which are at present not affected.

The Grand Trunk, as soon as the notice was received, sent out word that it proposed to make the same rate as that of the Wabash, with the conditions identical. This demands that the Lake Shore and the Nickel Plate shall take some self-protective steps, but the nature of these has not been determined upon. So far the Erie line has not been touched by the demoralization, and it is hardly expected that this road will meet the competition. The North and South lines, of course, are out of the trouble, unless it might happen to catch the Big Four and the Pennsylvania at St. Louis. Developments there are being looked for.

Has Its Disadvantages. The Penna. Company is seriously inconvenienced by travel by the new manner they have adopted in making up fast trains 20 and 21, says the Delphos Herald. Instead of the day coaches being placed next after the baggage, express and mail cars, as has been the custom in the past, they are now run at the rear end of the train. In one respect this is a decided improvement, for in case of a wreck, the light day coaches would be telescoped by the Pullman cars behind them, whereas with the present arrangement they would receive the least damage, and they also contain more people than the other cars. With the day coaches in the rear the passengers are compelled to alight from the cars and board at a point east or west of the platform. The only way to remedy the matter will be to extend the platform, which will probably be done, if the change is continued.

Says It's a Bluff. Subsequent events prove the threat to remove the Clover Leaf shops from Frankfort to Delphos a huge bluff, inspired by the attitude of the citizens of Frankfort during some labor troubles in the shops there. The company has just installed air-brake testing and repair machinery in the Frankfort shops at a cost of $1,000, which does not indicate any intention of removing the shops in the near future.—Fort Wayne Sentinel.

Pennsylvania Notes. The Pennsylvania has received the installment of 400 cars ordered some months ago.

Mr. McArthur is very proud of his conquests.—Fort Wayne Sentinel.

A frightful discovery was made at Fort Wayne last night when the dead body of Edward D. Darling was found hanging to the brakebeam of a car in the first section of west bound freight No. 75. Darling was employed on one of the work trains at Donelson's mill and was sent back to flag No. 75 which he did. That was the last seen of him alive. He was not badly mangled and death was evidently caused by his being rolled along the tracks.

Brakeman W. B. Rooney was injured yesterday by being thrown against an obstacle in the caboose when the air brakes tightened. He suffered a fractured rib.

SEEM

To be a Few Gushers Left

On Spindletop.

The National Oil Co., Brings in No. 3

Which Makes 31 Gushers That Have Been Tapped in Beaumont Field.

Oil Men Conclude They Have Discovered the Dip in the Territory Almost to a Certainty and Time Will Tell.

A corps of drillers broke the record yesterday and brought in a magnificent gusher for the National Oil and Pipe Line company in sixteen working days says the Beaumont Daily Enterprise. The new well is located on the same tract as the other producers of the National Oil and Pipe Line company and, being a six-inch, takes place in the first rank of oil gushers. The drill went through the cap rock Saturday and could have been brought in Sunday but the contractors preferred not to operate on that day. The four-inch was removed yesterday morning and about 12 o'clock the gusher started. Very little water had been removed when the force of the oil finished the task for the operators, and the well was allowed to spurt only long enough to satisfy the owners and contractors that it had been finished in good shape. This makes the third well for the National Oil and Pipe Line company and No. 31 for the field.

P. M. Lea & Son, who brought in the National No. 2 yesterday gave out the depth this morning as 980 feet, which is exactly the same as the Beauty or National No. 1, and six feet deeper than No. 2. The well was drilled with a six-inch pipe in 15 days and lowers the record for bringing in a gusher one day. Only a few feet of water had been taken out after removing the four-inch when the force of the oil finished bailing the well and the gate valve closed.

P. M. Lea & Son will move their rig on the Oteri Syndicate lot out of the same block on which is located the National wells. Chas. F. Tomes, who has charge of the Syndicate's operations in the field, expects to begin operations Thursday and have a gusher in the next three weeks. The Oteri Syndicate is a New Orleans concern and have lately acquired several tracts on Spindletop.

Oil men have about come to the conclusion that they have discovered the "dip" in the Beaumont field and can calculate the depth to which a well would have to be sunk off the bluff with some degree of certainty. If they are correct in their estimates none of the dry holes near the bluff have been sunk deep enough to expect oil.

C. D. Pullen of the National Oil and Pipe Line company and one of the first operators to reach the field after the Lucas strike, stated to an Enterprise reporter that he had been in conference with several experienced oil men who were of the same opinion. According to Mr. Pullen's theory the Hogg-Swayne and El Beaumont gushers show a dip of 125 feet to every 500 feet of the hill. If this be true the Kiser-Kelley and other noted dusters stopped short of the oil sand by several feet. At a distance of 5,000 feet from the hill a well would have to be drilled 1250 feet deeper than would be required on the hill, or possibly the dip might increase a certain distance from the hill.

Pending some intelligence on this point the deep wells projected in the doubtful territory have been a little slow about beginning operations. Further, there has been a disposition bordering on selfishness on the part of some of the oil companies who expected others to bear the burden of this developing their section. In this they have been disappointed and there is nothing left to do but pull together for the interest of all concerned. The dozens of companies who have succeeded in getting on the hill are bringing in gushers at the rate of about one a day which will furnish them a basis for operations in the out side territory and the merits of the dip theory will be put to a test at once.

THE STAGE

Faurol's opera house has been opened for the season and the event was one that was gratifying in every respect not only to the patrons of the opening performance but also to the management, for the attendance was all that could have been either anticipated or accommodated. The house has a neat, clean and orderly appearance, many repairs have been made, and the personnel and service of the corns of ushers could not be improved upon. The opening performance, Field's minstrels, pleased the big audience and the few "shots" taken by some of the comedians at Lima's police department "went" big. The company is the strongest and the performance the best that A. G. Field ever had on the road.

The genial Lou Cunningham's methods as manager are of the character that are bound to make him and his house popular among Lima theatre goers. One welcome innovation this season is an iron-clad rule that the curtain must go up promptly at 8:15 o'clock on the first scene every evening that there is a performance to be given in the house. With this rule rigidly enforced patrons of the house will know what time to go to the theatre and there will be no necessity for any tiresome waits.

The experience of the two or three hundred persons, including quite a number of ladies who had to stand on their feet during the minstrel performance Thursday night, suggests the advisability and advantage of patrons securing their tickets and having seats reserved in advance. Manager Cunningham announces that the box office clerk will receive orders for tickets by telephone or otherwise and the only obligation will be that the tickets so reserved shall be called for before 8:30 o'clock p. m. on the evening of the performance. Tickets will also be redeemed at the box office at any time before a performance begins.

It is generally conceded that Mr. Esmond has given to the stage a very remarkable and wholesome play. "When We Were Twenty-One" comes at the right time. It comes as a wholesome check to decadence and degeneracy. "It is sweet as mountain air that has been kissed by the heather, and all the men are brave, sympathetic, honest loyal fellows. They are not ashamed to wear their hearts on their sleeves, they do not care how many daws peck at them."

So wrote the critic of the New York Herald about the play "When We Were Twenty-One" which will be presented by a fine company under the management of Edward E. Rice, of "Fringeline" and "1492" fame, at Faurol's opera house on Friday, September 30th. The Herald was not alone in its opinion; the critics of New York without a dissenting voice, hailed the new play as a great acquisition to our present meagre dramatic literature. The press was so ungrudging in their praise, that the manager of the Knickerbocker Theatre (where the play was produced) was tempted to slightly change Richard Brinsley Sheridan's famous line: "When they do agree among the press, their unanimity is wonderful." The success of the play was immediate, and being a valuable piece of dramatic property, there were many who desired to obtain it. The engagement of the best company in the country is a guarantee our play-goers will have a great performance.

The play requires the most delicate shading and artistic atmosphere. An ordinary company would fail to appreciate the subtleties of Esmond's delicious writing. This has been carefully guarded against by presenting an organization far above the average in point of dramatic ability. Nestor Lennen, an actor of eminence and ability, and Dora Booth, a graduate of Charles Frohman's and Julia Marlowe's companies, have the leading roles.

All managers, as a rule select their own company, but Mr. Rice and Mr. Esmond do things differently. When the contract was signed last year between these two gentlemen, and the play "When We Were Twenty-One" was secured, Esmond said to Rice: "You engage the company, old man, just get the 'best artists' obtainable, and I shall be satisfied, only be particularly careful about securing the leading lady." "Well, give me some idea of the qualifications required and I will see what I can do," replied the manager. Knowing exactly what he wanted, and without hesitancy, Esmond glibly rattled out: "She must be young, handsome, accomplished, aristocratic in appearance, of good family, perfectly educated, know how to wear fashionable gowns, not too tall, well modulated voice, and of artistic temperament." "Well," said Rice, after a pause, "that's a pretty big commission, but I'll see what I can do." A. J. Carter, author of "The Heart of Chicago," which comes to the Faurol's at the Lamb's club, told him what

It is significant that in homes of wealth where the very best is demanded, Ivory Soap is used in the nursery. At the same time, in hundreds of families where economy decides the choice, Ivory Soap is selected. Thus its purity attracts the rich; its economy attracts the poor. High quality and low cost; is there any better combination?

Esmond expected of a leading woman, and asked him if he knew of anyone who would come somewhere near filling the bill. "Knew just the woman," replied the comedian, "she was under study for Mrs. Goodwin last season in the very part you want her for," and so it happened that Miss Booth was engaged to play Phyllis Erleson in "When We Were Twenty-One." Her success in the character has been of the most positive kind.

An attraction that will be hailed with delight by many Lima theatre goers is Uncle Josh Spruceby, which comes Saturday, August 31, for matinee and evening performance. Uncle Josh is too well known in Lima to require any comment other than that the play has been brought up to date, new specialties introduced and that two hands accompany the organization. Uncle Josh will play to popular prices.

Nat Goodwin evidently considers "Dick Carewe" his strongest part, as he has chosen "When We Were Twenty-One" for his London season at the Shaftesbury theatre, where he opens next Monday night.

Wm. A. Brady invited a few baked histered and heat oppressed New York friends, including his general stage director Frank R. Hatch, to spend a quiet evening at his Asbury Park cottage. Directly they arrived the Allanburst Inn, a fashionable resort, almost next door, burst into flames and until nearly daylight next morning the manager and his dejected guests, organized as a volunteer bucket brigade, were frantically employed in ineffective attempts to empty the Atlantic ocean. Meanwhile the caravansary leisurely consumed. After a hasty breakfast on the lawn Mr. Brady's city visitors, blackened, begrimed and utterly prostrated in body and spirit, feebly assured him that they had enjoyed a perfectly lovely time and started on a run across local to catch a train then whistling its approach.

Among the early attractions booked by manager Cunningham is "Way Down East," the eminently successful pastoral play written by Lottie Blair Parker. Negotiations have just been concluded with manager W. A. Brady for the production. Despite three seasons of really remarkable success Mr. Brady still retains the sole rights to the play, evincing the same interest in the production as he did at the outset of its remarkable career. Consequently local theatregoers are promised a company has made his name one to conjure with in matters theatrical.

The street parade which A. W. Martin uses as an advertisement for his Uncle Tom's Cabin production, is said to represent a largely outlay of capital than that invested by other managers on their entire offering. The parade reaches one-quarter of a mile in length, and contains chariots, Tom Thumb's carriage, floats, a tally-ho, thirty ponies and horses, oxen, burros and donkeys, blood-hounds, three brass bands, Creole ladies' drum corps, thirty Wangoodle pickaninnies and "Rastus" the California giant. The parade will start from the theatre on the date of the engagement.

Here is a good story told by Lincoln Carter, author of "The Heart of Chicago," which comes to the Faurol's opera house next month, said he:

was never so tired in my life, as I was on this particular evening, and when I fell into a snug seat in the street car it seemed the next thing to Heaven. But I was not to be left to the enjoyment of my well earned rest. A big handsomely dressed woman boarded the car, stared me steadily in the eye and finally hypnotized me out of my seat. She never acknowledged the courtesy in any way but rather seemed to resent my presence on top of earth. This happens too often. I became a little nettled, and was turning over all sorts of cutting bits of sarcasm in my mind, such as you are entirely welcome, don't mention it, etc., when a sweet little voice chirped forth: "what do you say to the gentleman?" All eyes were on the little tot on her mother's knee, and on the fat woman. The evident satisfaction of the passengers was too much for her and she left the car amidst a scarcely undercurrent of laughter. That little baby had been taught to say "thank you."

WRECK OF THE ISLANDER

Tragic Stories Told by Survivors of the Disaster.

ENGINEER'S TOUCHING FAREWELL

From All Accounts the Officers and Crew of the Steamship Sunk by an Iceberg Did Their Duty and Showed Great Bravery—Captain Foote's Coolness.

The responsibility for the Islander disaster is being discussed, and although the fast speed—14 knots—is criticised, the accident seems to have been unavoidable, says a Victoria (B. C.) dispatch to the New York Sun. The stories of the passengers of the captain being excited by liquor are known to be untrue.

That Captain Foote acted as he did in not wanting immediately to put the steamer on the beach is easily understood in view of the past experience of that navigator when in command of the steamer Danube about two years ago. The Danube struck a piece of ice off Tahn Arm, which tore a hole in the steamer's bow, but bulkheads saved the steamer from flooding, and she steamed into Juneau a little down by the head, but otherwise intact. She was temporarily repaired at Juneau and steamed down to Victoria with a hole in her bow just at the water line, which was temporarily patched with canvas and cement.

When the Islander struck, Captain Foote, who acted coolly and gave his orders in a calm voice, according to those who stood by, evidently thought that as in the instance of the Danube, the bulkheads of the Islander would save the steamer. She had four bulkheads, one about ten feet or thereabouts from her bow, the second beneath the steamer's bridge and the third away aft. Without doubt, according to the surviving officers, the ice struck the steamer on her port quarter just aft of the second bulkhead, beneath the bridge, and through the hole torn there the water rushed into the large portion of the vessel amidships to her next bulkhead. It rushed into the engine room, and although two firemen endeavored to shut the top wheel and keep back the water from the engine room all was useless.

The story of the getting out of the boats as told by the survivors now returned shows that the officers and crew of the steamer Islander acted with brave self sacrifice in neglecting to secure the safety of their passengers. But many of the passengers rushed into the boats and fought to push off before the boats filled, neglecting chances to save others in their hurry to get the boats away. When Second Officer Brownlee jumped from the steamer to save himself as the steamer was making her final plunge, there was a boat standing by for Mrs. Ross and others, but when the steamer plunged it shied off at once and did not wait.

In some of the boats there were a scanty number of passengers. In one boat, according to several survivors, there were only ten men, and in another only 17. These facts bear out Pilot Le Blanc's statement that, had the passengers preserved order in launching the boats, the list of dead would not have been so large.

From Captain Foote down to firemen and waiters it is shown that the men of the Islander did their duty and remained with the vessel as long as was possible. Captain Foote almost lifted him off. Pilot Le Blanc, Second Mate Powell and Mate Neuvost waited until the vessel was making her final plunge before they jumped for safety. Purser Bishop coolly gave the gold from his safe to those who came to the end. Steward Simpson waited until the lights had gone out and the steamer was foundering before he sought safety, and his second steward, Horace Fowler, went down to death while ascertaining if all the passengers had left their state-rooms. Chief Engineer Brownlee, Second Engineer Allan, Third Engineer Allie, Fourth Engineer Denby, each of them waited until the engines were useless, and there was no use remaining in the engine room, and then went to render assistance in getting out the boats, declining a place themselves.

The farewell of the engineers in the flooding engine room was a tragic feature of the catastrophe. The bell had elapsed twice for full speed ahead, and when the levers had been moved the only effect was to make the two screws of the steamer race wildly in the nonresisting air and cause the big steamer to tremble. So far had the flooding steamer gone down by the head that the propellers and rudder were out of the water and the engines were useless. The clanging signals from the bridge calling for "full speed ahead" could not be obeyed, and after the engines had been stopped and two firemen had died in attempting to shut the top wheel, which would have blocked the water, the engineers took each other by the hand, and then, as they ran for the upper deck, Scotch Engineer Allan said in his Scotch accent:

"If we meet we meet, and if we don't we don't; we'll make a bold dash for it, anyway."

The others met again, but Second Engineer Allan went down to death, and his wife of five months is a widow. Second Officer Powell of the wrecked Islander gives details of the death of Captain Foote. When the steamship went down, he struck out from the ship and soon saw a raft. On this raft he saw Pilot Le Blanc at one side and Captain Foote.

Soon after the second mate grasped the life line of the raft to support himself, the big fellow on the center of the raft drew a revolver and, with an oath, shouted to the second officer to get up or he would blow his brains out.

"Shoot away," said Powell, "for I guess you will soon follow me anyway. I believe your cartridges are too wet." He continued to cling to the raft until he saw a door floating by and left the raft and struck out for that. Pilot Le Blanc, who had been clinging to the raft, cried out about the same time from a different direction. Captain Foote had pulled his pipe from his pocket as he sat on the raft, an action which, according to those who knew the captain, would show that he was agitated, for he invariably began filling his pipe when agitated over anything.

As he pulled out his pipe some of the passengers on the raft, the man with the revolver in particular, began to make cutting remarks to the captain. Captain Foote replied, "Oh, I've lost my ship, and I suppose I have to take my medicine, but I can die as game as any of you."

The man in the center remarked that there was little room on the raft anyway. He said he did not think there was room enough for the captain.

"I guess there are too many of us on the raft," said Captain Foote. "Goodby, boys," he added, and with these words he slipped off the raft and swam away. Part of this conversation was heard by Second Officer Powell, and others of the survivors told of remarks that were made by passengers and the captain after the second officer left the raft.

As the door floated through the chilly water the second officer suddenly saw the captain near by supporting himself by an oar. He had no cap and was very pale. The second mate shouted to him, "Is that you, captain?" And on receiving an affirmative reply he shouted over the water, "What have you got?" The captain replied that he had an oar. Together, they drifted along for some time, and after awhile he lost the captain in the mist. He shouted to him several times before he got out of sight, but received no reply.

Steward Simpson, who came home by the Yosemite, having come down to Vancouver on the steamship Farallone, tells of seeing the captain go down to death. He saw the captain supporting himself on an oar and shouted, "Are you there, captain?" Captain Foote replied, "Yes." And the steward said, "Come and take hold here; I've got the jackstaid."

"It's too late," said the captain, and a moment or two afterward he let go and went down.

FINDS PREHISTORIC BONES.

Carnegie Museum Collector Discovers Skeletons of Ancient Horses.

The Carnegie museum at Pittsburgh will shortly receive a consignment from one of its collectors, a Mr. Peterson, which will probably cause important discussion in the scientific world, says a Harrison (Neb.) dispatch to the New York Times. Mr. Peterson has discovered in and below the bed of a creek running near Harrison six skeletons perfectly preserved by petrification. These are the bones of horses beyond possibility of scientific refutation, but from their size they prove conclusively that the prehistoric horse was much smaller than the animal as it appears nowadays.

Although the skeletons have not been set up by Mr. Peterson, they are complete. From the measurements taken it is apparent that the horses of the time when these were alive were about the size of a 2-months-old colt of the present day. Mr. Peterson found the skeletons while prospecting for relics for the museum. A small bone, seemingly an ordinary stone, gave him the first clue. Following up his find, he arrived at a point indicating to his scientific discernment that more bones were to be found by digging. Three of the skeletons were found one above the other, though a short distance apart laterally. The other three were in different parts of the creek bed.

KOCH SAYS WAIT.

Is Confident His Tuberculosis Theory Will Be Proved.

Professor Robert Koch, in explaining his recent London address on consumption, declares that experiment with actual facts is the only method of fighting the disease. To the Berlin correspondent of the Chicago Record-Herald he declared that argument could not in any manner forward the matter. Statistics will not accomplish what experiment alone can do.

Dr. Koch said it was now demonstrated that human tuberculosis could not be transmitted to cattle. By careful watching the reverse of this would be indisputably proved.

He did not wish to dismantle all the expensive systems of regulation, inspection and prevention now in vogue, but he thought it wise not to add to these systems useless appendages. The remedy, he believes, is almost within reach.

"The Lone Mariner" Weds.

Captain Andrews, "the lone mariner," who married Miss South recently, says an Atlantic City dispatch to the New York World, will set sail in a 12 foot boat for Lisbon on Aug. 28 with his bride. Some time ago Andrews advertised for a young woman to cross the Atlantic in a cockleshell with him, and from scores of replies selected the letter of Miss South. When they met, they fell in love.

A Cure for Cholera Infantum.

"Last May," says Mrs. Curtis Baker, of Bookwater, Ohio, "an infant child of our neighbor's was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctor had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to the house, telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days' time the child had fully recovered, and is now (nearly a year since) a vigorous, healthy girl. I have recommended this Remedy frequently and have never known it to fail in any single instance." For

TO LOWER INSURANCE.

New Tables Regarding Mortality to Be Compiled.

WILL DECREASE PREMIUM RATES.

Figures Gathered by the British Life Assurance Societies Show That We Live Longer—Improved Conditions
Said to Have Added Two Years to the Average Life.A movement is on foot in the Actuarial Society of America to compile a new series of tables for the life insurance companies of America. It is expected that the new tables, says the New York Times, will reveal a decreased mortality among the people in this country, and this would have its effect in decreasing the premium rates now charged by the insurance concerns.The tables now used by American companies are based for the most part upon the experience of one company up to 30 years ago.The new series of tables will show the effect of occupation upon mortality.
At the present time insurance companies make different rates for the hazardous occupations, but no compilation of the actual results in these occupations has been made.The whole life assurance business is based upon mortality tables. A certain number of every thousand men insured are expected to die every year. Those expected to live must therefore pay enough to defray at least the entire cost of paying out the insurance on the lives of the deceased. The tables must be made up with the utmost care, and the expense of the process is very great. It is estimated that the compiling of the summary tables will entail an expense of some $30,000.The international congress of actuaries is to meet in this city in 1903. The new mortality tables for the United States are to be completed by that time, and it is expected that the plan for the compilation of complete tables will itself be in operation by that date.
The tables which have just been completed in England, according to the actuary interviewed, show conclusively that modern conditions have lengthened the time a man may be expected to live at any one stage of his life, and they show that fewer people per thousand die every year now than was formerly the case."The most interesting of these new tables," said that actuary, "shows how many males healthy at the age of 10 years may be expected to be alive at later ages. The old table comprised results up to 1890, the new one those between 1891 and 1900, for it has taken eight years to complete it. This table shows the 'expectation' of males at years of age as follows:

Age.	Old table.	New table.	Difference in favor of new table.
Ten.....	100.00	100.00	—
Fifteen.....	99.24	99.24	—
Twenty.....	98.48	98.48	—
Twenty-five.....	97.72	97.72	—
Thirty.....	96.96	96.96	—
Thirty-five.....	96.20	96.20	—
Forty.....	95.44	95.44	—
Forty-five.....	94.68	94.68	—
Fifty.....	93.92	93.92	—
Fifty-five.....	93.16	93.16	—
Sixty.....	92.40	92.40	—
Sixty-five.....	91.64	91.64	—
Seventy.....	90.88	90.88	—
Seventy-five.....	90.12	90.12	—
Eighty.....	89.36	89.36	—
Eighty-five.....	88.60	88.60	—
Ninety.....	87.84	87.84	—
Ninety-five.....	87.08	87.08	—
Hundred.....	86.32	86.32	—

"The following tables have an even greater influence upon determining the premium rate than the foregoing ones, and they are of the greatest significance in revealing the improvement of the sanitary and other conditions of modern life. The new tables show that the average healthy male of 10 years of age can expect to live 61.45 years longer, whereas under the old tables he could not expect to live more than 49.71 years more. This is an average increase for the new tables of 1.668.
The table shows the 'expectation' of men at other ages:

Age.	Old table.	New table.	Difference in favor of new table.
Fifteen.....	45.60	47.26	1.66
Twenty.....	41.56	43.22	1.66
Twenty-five.....	37.52	39.18	1.66
Thirty.....	33.48	35.14	1.66
Thirty-five.....	29.44	31.10	1.66
Forty.....	25.40	27.06	1.66
Forty-five.....	21.36	23.02	1.66
Fifty.....	17.32	18.98	1.66
Fifty-five.....	13.28	14.94	1.66
Sixty.....	9.24	10.90	1.66
Sixty-five.....	5.20	6.86	1.66
Seventy.....	1.16	2.82	1.66
Seventy-five.....	0.72	2.38	1.66
Eighty.....	0.28	1.94	1.66

"These figures will have many effects. Their immediate effect upon premium rates will not be so apparent as will the eventual adjustment. The new table will undoubtedly require smaller reserves at a given rate of interest than the old table did, and insurance companies will be able to lower the rate of interest assumed at their periodical valuations without actually increasing their reserves to the same extent as would have been necessary under the old table."A table second only in importance to the table of average life expectations is that showing the 'expectation'
after the first five years of assurance.
The table showing the numbers out of every 100,000 living at certain ages is as follows:

Age.	Old table.	New table.	Difference in favor of new table.
Ten.....	100,000	100,000	—
Fifteen.....	99,999	99,999	—

"Figures have also been gathered in England with reference to annuity business, and this experience discloses a superior vitality in all cases to that of the old regime. This is likely to discourage annuity insurance and is certain to cause higher prices to be paid for it."Conditions of life in England are very similar to what they are in this country, so the foregoing figures indicate what would be very likely discovered by a similar canvass in the United States. To make a compilation of this character is a matter of many years, but the Actuarial Society of America will undoubtedly undertake it within a very short time."

A DANGEROUS PLACE.

Point Breeze the Scene of Many Tragedies.In the oil tanks at Point Breeze, where so many men have just been burned, is stored petroleum from the oilfields of western Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Indiana and Ohio. Millions of gallons of crude oil are conveyed there annually, refined at the works and sent to all parts of the world, says the Philadelphia Press. Fleets of tank-ers, sailing under the flags of many nations, load there, and thousands of barrels of the refined oil are shipped in smaller craft. The Point Breeze works is the distributing center for nearly all the oil from these eastern fields of the Standard Oil company.Besides its commercial importance, Point Breeze has also been the scene of many tragedies. Fires have been of frequent occurrence and the loss of life and property large. About 22 years ago one of the worst fires in the history of the plant destroyed the greater part of the works. The oil burst from the tanks, forced over the grounds and ran into the river. A fleet of ships and river craft were burned. When the burning oil flowed into the Schuylkill, two men were rowing opposite the plant in a small rowboat. They started for the opposite shore, but were soon surrounded by the burning oil.
Their boat was in the center of a fiery lake, and the flames crept rapidly toward them from all directions.Soon the fire touched the sides of the boat, and in an instant it and the occupants were in flames. Powerless to help the men, the crowd ashore saw them throw up their hands

The Keys With Her Neighbors

And the House

Robbed During Mrs. Whipler's Absence.

Philip Carter's House was Searched and Some of the Things Found

But There are a Number of Articles Missing—Constable Cremean Searched Several Places This Morning.

Constable Cremean, armed with a search warrant, made his way to Watt town, where he has been off times before, this morning, and made a search of the homes of Frank Seibert and Carl Alberding in the hope of finding a number of articles stolen from the house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John Whipler.

The theft of the articles listed in the warrant is not charged to either the Seiberts or Alberdings, but to the family of Philip Carter. The intimacy existing between the parties led to the belief that a search of the premises would bring the goods to light and Mr. Whipler accordingly made application for the necessary warrant.

The offense which is attributed to the Carter's dates back about two weeks. Mrs. Whipler, whose husband is a pumper, lives on the outskirts of the city at the foot of east North street, and the Carters are neighbors. The Whiplers left home for a short stay and before going entrusted the care of the premises to the Carters, leaving the key in their possession. When Mrs. Whipler returned home she was informed that during her absence the house had been broken into and some things stolen. There was no sign left to show how the burglars got in, but there was sufficient evidence of a thief having been there.

Mrs. Whipler believed what had been told her, but a few days later she called at Justice Duffield's office and charged the Carter family with having entered the premises, and taken a number of things, including two white skirts, bed sheets, a pair of lady's shoes 29 yards of carpet, a black satin belt, a silver watch and gold chain, several handkerchiefs, and other articles. The complainant said she was positive that she saw the skirts and some other articles on the line, and Constable Cremean went to the house and made a search. The family was washing again and among the soiled linen, two of the missing handkerchiefs were found and identified. None of the other missing articles could be located.

It was decided not to make any arrests at the time. Mrs. Whipler being rather more desirous of recovering her property than anything else, and that led to the search instituted this morning. The homes of Seibert and Alberding were systematically looked over this morning but nothing belonging to Mrs. Whipler was found. The home of Charles Golden was also searched with the same result, and they all denied having any knowledge of the goods being in possession of the Carters. Another tip was given however, which suggested the searching of a house on west Kibby street and a visit will be made there this afternoon. If nothing is found a warrant for the arrest of the parties accused will be issued, the finding of the handkerchiefs in their possession being sufficient for that purpose.

Today at 3:30 o'clock, the funeral of little Flog May Gray occurred at the home of her grandparents, corner of Cole street and the Allentown road. Rev. Clarence Mitchell officiated. The parents of the child who are at Buffalo, were unable to be present on account of the serious illness of the child's mother.

Virtue may be its own reward, but most people expect more.

CAPTAIN.

HAND

Of Death Ends His Sufferings.

An Operation

For Appendicitis is Followed by Death.

James Sanders, a Prominent Young Machinist, the Victim.

Came Home From Van Wert, Where He Was Recently Employed—Funeral Arrangements Not Completed.

The genial and popular James Sanders, known by hundreds, and loved by scores, passed into the realm of everlasting peace last evening at about 10:40 o'clock from the effects of an attack of appendicitis and a surgical operation that was performed at the home of his parents on south Pine street at about noon yesterday. The deceased was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sanders and has at one time, quite a favorite bicycle racer among the local talent. For several years he was employed as a machinist apprentice at the L. E. & W. shops and later, after he had learned the trade, he worked at Newton and a few weeks ago, he went to Van Wert and took service with the Cincinnati Northern. He was holding the last named position when he was taken sick and forced to return to his Lima home for treatment and relief. Wherever he went, "Jimmy" Sanders as he was perhaps better known, gained popularity. A better hearted and more congenial young man could not be found and his death, taking him away as it does in the 26th year of his well spent life, will cause deep regret in this city and elsewhere.

Before passing into the presence of the Almighty, the patient requested that Miss Permilla Simons, whom he was known since the days of their childhood, be asked to sing at his funeral. The arrangements for the services have not yet been completed.

SPORTSMEN

Adopt Plans to Change the Game Laws.

A Meeting Held at Cleveland and Simon Spellacy is Elected One of the Directors.

Sportmen will do all in their power to procure the enactment of a conservative game law that will protect sportsmen as well as farmers, prevent the useless destruction of game, and establish the hunting of birds and other game on a basis satisfactory to all concerned.

Thursday night a meeting of the Ohio Sportsmen's Protective Association was held at the American House, at Cleveland when the subject was well canvassed and plans adopted to win the fight in the Legislature next winter. The association has assurance of financial supports and expects to have plenty of funds with which to carry on the fight.

A synopsis of the proposed law was printed in last Sunday's Leader. Its primary objects are to compel all hunters to take out a license, for which they will pay $1.25; to prevent boys under fifteen years of age from using a gun; to establish the open and closing season on a more sensible plan than the one at present in vogue; to protect both farmers and sportsmen.

Directors for the ensuing year were elected as follows: John H. Mackie, Cincinnati; A. F. Miller, Sandusky; T. R. Haxwell, Circleville; S. Spellacy, Lima; F. C. Ehrbar, Paul North, Colonel; Louis Smithlight, Ralph Worthington; L. O. Haxson, J. A. Smith, C. T. Bodfield, R. C. White, A. W. Hittich, Isaac Reynolds, and W. P. Horton, all of Cleveland. Following the regular meeting a meeting of the directors was held at which Paul North was elected president and C. T. Bodfield, secretary and treasurer.

McBETH PARK CASINO TOMORROW AND NEXT WEEK.

The vaudeville bill at McBeth park for the coming week, beginning with matinee tomorrow afternoon, will include Dick and Maud Garnella in their very clever comedy, entitled, "By Brother Johnny" which serves as a splendid vehicle in which to introduce their many songs and dances. The Southern Stars, Chas. H. Russell and Angie Dundar in their Ethiopian comedy, "My Hannah Lady" will also be an interesting feature of the bill. The polscope will introduce two sets of moving pictures at the evening performance, appearing as second and fourth on the program. The pictures have become very popular during the summer and the patrons will no doubt be pleased to know that there will be two series of pictures at each performance.

Dana's band will give two concerts, afternoon and evening, tomorrow, weather permitting. There has been a rumor afloat that the park would close next week, such is not the case, as the park will not close till Sunday, September 8th for a great bill, has been booked by manager Maxwell for the week of September 1st, which includes Labor Day.

WANTED

To Get a Match On in This City

But Local Talent is "Leary" Just at Present.

Isador Ullsman, Better Known as Kid Williams, Pays a Visit to the Pugilistic Stars of This City.

Isador Williams, who is better known in the circles of his chosen profession as "Kid" Williams, and who is recognized as a fighter of some reputation and ability, dropped into Lima last night in search of a match with some of the local stars of the pugilistic ring. The Kid has been doing considerable fighting in the west recently and was in Dayton looking for a match before coming to this city. The local talent is afraid to attempt to pull off a match in this city at the present time on account of the crusade that is being made against the "wide open town" policy of the present administration and do not believe that Mayor McCord would be willing to issue a permit even for a limited round contest at this time.

Williams will leave Lima tomorrow and will go to Jackson, Mich., where he hopes to secure a match.

MISS SIMONS THANKFUL.

Miss Permilla Simons, through the columns of the Times-Democrat, wishes to tender her most sincere and heartfelt thanks to all those who participated in or aided her in any way toward the success of her benefit concert held last night.

As the Signal puts it: "The professor is a man of charming personality and holds the attention of his hearers at all times. His talk on Gettysburg on Thursday afternoon and Alaska on Friday, were very interesting."

No Scarcity of Plums There.

W. W. McGuire, of 150 east Kibby street, has in his yard a plum tree that is attracting a great amount of attention and admiration just now. The tree is so full of fruit that its branches are almost broken down by the steadily increasing weight and the plums are just beginning to ripen. One branch, not more than a foot in length, which was broken off by Mr. McGuire and presented to a Times-Democrat this morning, contains 27 large, luscious plums.

PECULIAR

Smash-up on the L. E. & W. Tracks.

One Car Derailed and Several Others Broken and Splintered—Damage Slight.

A half dozen box cars, were mashed up in a freight wreck which occurred at the L. E. & W. freight house at about 12:15 o'clock today. Tracks one and two were filled with box cars, most of them freight laden. Between two cars was a "bridge" over which freight from the platform is carried to cars on track No. 2. The cars on No. 1 track were being pulled out when the bridge caught, starting the string of cars on the second track. When the switch was reached, the two strings of cars collided, resulting in a few of them being badly torn open. One car was completely derailed and now stands diagonally between the two tracks. No damage was done to the freight except that a small quantity of grain was spilled.
